Health awareness

When members of the Health Occupations Student Association at Romulus Senior High School staged a fair last week, they gave it the theme of community awareness. The goal, students said, was to spread the word about health needs in the school and in the community. For more information about the health fair please see page A-5. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Educators take critical look at district

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Education in the United States has been under fire from parents, business people and even educators in recent years.

Armed with a two-year grant, Romulus educators will now look at their own system with a more critical eye.

When they find problems, they will suggest changes and an agenda to implement them.

This extensive evaluation program, Project Renewal, has enlisted the help of administrators, teachers, students and parents.

Participants have been grouped into three school-improvement teams representing elementary, junior high and senior high school levels.

School personnel will be temporarily relieved from their regular duties so they can tackle the renewal project full time.

Project Director Art McPharlin, principal of Halecreek Elementary School, introduced the improvement teams during an organizational dinner meeting April 4.

"Project Renewal offers you a challenge and a commitment," McPharlin said. "There are no shortcuts to quality programs."

"I've been told this is an impossible task, it can't be done," said Doug Hoffman, high school improvement team facilitator. "It may look impossible to you, but we're going to continue to try."

This program has potential to create radical changes, Hoffman said - relationships between teachers and students, the roles of principals, class times and scheduling systems and overall education goals.

Deborah Juriga, facilitator for the junior high school team, said she is excited about the project. Her team has been meeting several weeks.

"Finally, middle level education and the need for change has received some much-needed attention," she said.

"We're going great guns," added Sheila Stasak, elementary team facilitator.

Presenting an argument for changes in education was keynote speaker Judson Hixson of the North Central Regional Education Laboratory in Illinois.

"Everybody supports improvement, it's change nobody likes," he said. "Improvement requires change."

Educational concerns in the spotlight today - low achievement test scores and high drop out rates, are not the real problems, Hixson said. Instead, he said, educators must focus on skills students today will need in a modern world.

"We need kids who can think and can reason... They can't just know stuff, they've got to think about things," Hixson said.

Hixson suggested several strategic frameworks for change - "why do we teach, who do we teach, what do we teach and where do we teach?"

Schools today operate on a system formed 100 years ago, Hixson said. For example, class time ends at 3 p.m., he said, because that was once the time for afternoon chores on

Men convicted in fire assault of 19-year-old

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

James Camilli, 40, and Vester Lee Mills, 24, were found guilty of assault with intent to murder Tuesday afternoon. The two men were charged with setting 19-year-old Kristen Grauman on fire along a deserted Romulus road last summer.

"That was the only logical verdict under the evidence we heard," said Judge Edward Thomas to the jurors for Camilli.

Trial proceedings for the Brownstown Township men spanned three weeks and included testimony by Grauman, Camilli and Sherry Mills - Mills' wife and Camilli's daughter.

The men could face up to life in prison when he is sentenced April 23 by Thomas.

Camilli's attorney, Henry Scharg, said the jury surprised him somewhat.

"It was a very quick verdict," he said.

Jurors for Camilli went into deliberation late Monday afternoon and returned with a decision shortly after noon Tuesday.

Scharg said the emotions and publicity surrounding this case may have impacted the jury decision.

"I'm glad they found him guilty," Grauman said. "I think the next verdict will be the same," she added, referring to Mills.

The young woman, surrounded by family members, observed the final days of the Mills/Camilli trial as attorneys presented their arguments.

She told reporters Tuesday afternoon she believed her testimony last week did affect the outcome of the trial. Grauman had presented jurors with a powerful account of the night of the attack, her birthday.

Grauman joined the men as she walked home from a party. One of the men had asked her where they could find $50 worth of crack cocaine. Grauman spoke openly of her use of the drug.

Riding in Mills' 1978 Chevrolet, Grauman became frightened when the men failed to obey her continued directions to turn right toward Pine Ridge, also known as Crack Ridge.

After Camilli turned left on Inkster Road toward a deserted section of town, Grauman tried to escape through a car window.

One of the men grabbed her legs, and splashed her with something "cold and wet" - gasoline.

"I didn't know what it was at the time," she said.

Grauman said she saw a small flame coming toward her before her body became a ball of fire.

She was then released and left at the side of the road.

"You probably couldn't imagine such an assault in your own worst nightmares," said Baker Monday during his closing argument. "This young, defenseless girl was attacked by these men. She had done nothing to them."

Baker during closure referred to Camilli's testimony as a "fairy tale." Camilli placed blame for the attack on Mills, claiming the younger man threatened him about calling the police.

Scharg backed up this claim during his arguments when he demonstrated for jurors how Mills could have held the bottle of gasoline and a lighter in one hand while restraining Grauman with the other.

Later, Mills' attorney described Camilli as the attacker, claiming the younger man splashed Grauman with gasoline by accident.

Camilli admitted during testimony the two men were in an argument with several men at Pine Ridge apartments the night of the attack when they went there in search of Camilli's girlfriend. The Pine Ridge men had smashed in most of the windows on Mills' car.

Camilli said he and Mills made a firebomb with gasoline and a pop bottle and were returning to the complex for revenge when they encountered Grauman.

McGuire suggested to jurors Mills was holding the gasoline bottle when Grauman tried to escape the moving car.

Rovers celebrate their 1st birthday

Members of the Romulus Rovers Walking Club celebrated their first anniversary April 3.

At the first organized meeting at the Romulus Recreation Center on Bibbins Road, 17 people expressed interest in forming a walking group.

Today, six of the original members remain.

In total, the club counts 15 families as members. Members walk for health, to keep their weight down, for company or for the safety of walking in groups.

Originally, members walked Monday evenings at the park behind the Romulus Recreation Department on the quarter mile track for one-hour sessions.

Additional walking sites during the year have been the bicycle trail along Interstate-275, Downtown Romulus, a trail at Lower Huron Metro Park and inside the western campus of Wayne County Community College.

Club members plan to walk outdoors at several sites during the spring and summer months. They say they hope to stage a picnic, yard sales and a Christmas party.

Some club members will participate in the March of Dimes WalkAmerica Team Walk for Healthier Babies.

For those interested in joining the club, family membership costs $10 per year and includes a monthly newsletter with health or walking hints, a schedule of the walks during the month and a roster of members with times they are able to walk.

For information about membership or the March of Dimes event call 941-2215.

Feasibility study reveals woes for city golf course proposal

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Wetlands and toxic waste may hinder proposed plans for a city-owned golf course along Wick Road, city officials learned Monday.

A recently completed golf course feasibility study was presented to councilmembers during a study session.

Don Childs, representing the Pontiac firm Bills/Childs, said demand for golf courses in Western Wayne county is high, but the site selected for the proposed $3 million development may pose problems.

The land, located off Wick Road near Elmer Johnson Park and Wick Elementary School, includes several wetland areas, Childs said.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources requires developers who disturb wetlands to establish new wetland areas.

In addition, Childs said a former dumping ground near the proposed golf course site reportedly contains toxic waste materials. DNR officials began cleanup of visible waste last summer, but the search for undetected material continues.

State and Romulus officials continue to debate who is responsible for the cleanup.

Before moving ahead with the golf course project, Childs recommended ensuring all waste is removed from the area.

He also suggested hiring consultants to map the wetlands on the site before the city approaches DNR officials with the project.

Despite those initial setbacks, Childs said potential for a successful golf course in Romulus is strong. Factors such as the proposed Metro World Centre development, Detroit Metropolitan Airport expansion and exhibit center development could all mean more business for a golf course, Childs said.

He recommended an 18-hole, championship-style course. Design should be a top priority, Childs added.

"The course should be challenging, but not too demanding," he said.

Childs said the facility should include a teaching/practice fairway, a clubhouse (at least 4,000 square feet), a snack shop or restaurant and a pro shop. The course would also need a maintenance center, he said.

Although the project would be expensive, Childs continued, it has the potential to earn $100,000 per year for the city.

Easter festivities feature bunny visit

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

A busy Saturday in the Belleville area is being planned by the Easter Bunny.

Between 10 and noon, the bunny has scheduled a visit to Van Buren Park. In a program, sponsored by the Van Buren Parks and Recreation Department, youngsters will visit the bunny and receive gifts of candy, donated by area business people.

Hours for an Easter egg hunt in the park are:

- 1 to 3 years old, 10 to 10:20 a.m.;
 - 4 to 6 years old, 10:30 to 10:50 a.m.;
 - 7 to 9 years old, 11 to 11:20 a.m., and
 - 10 to 12 years old, 11:30 a.m. until noon.
- Activities at Victory Park, in downtown Belleville, will begin at noon.
- Children, up to the age of 4, may visit Betty Bunny between noon and 1 p.m. Those, 4 and older, may visit with the bunny from 1 to 2 p.m. in the park gazebo.

Each child will receive an egg filled with candies, prizes and certificates from Belleville merchants. In addition, children will receive a free picture with Betty Bunny through the donations of Belleville area service clubs.

An Easter bonnet contest also will be staged in Victory Park, and three prizes will be awarded in each of three categories.

Bonnets will be judged in the following categories:

- 3 to 5 years of age, prizes for funniest, prettiest and most unusual;
- 6 to 8 years of age, prizes for funniest, prettiest and most unusual, and
- 9 to 10 years of age, prizes for funniest, prettiest and most unusual.

In the event of rain, the Victory Park event will be staged at the Belleville Fire Station, corner Second and Liberty streets.

DIGEST

Restaurant reports

armed robbery

An armed robber April 5 struck a fast food restaurant on the 7000 block of Middlebelt.

Romulus police said the suspect entered the restaurant at approximately 6 p.m. No customers were present, but several employees were on duty.

The suspect produced a handgun and demanded money from a cash register.

No shots were fired, police said, and no one was injured.

The suspect is described as a black male, between 25 and 30 years old, 140 to 160 pounds, with a dark complexion and of medium size. He wore a black jacket and dark trousers during the robbery.

Witnesses report the man headed westbound on Ecorse Road in a gray car dating to the mid-1970s.

Anyone with information about this case is urged to contact the Romulus Police Department at 941-8400.

Local group

plans murder

Members of the Romulus Arts Council will host a Murder Mystery Evening at 4 p.m. April 28 at Detroit Metropolitan Airport Holiday Inn.

The mystery, A Vintage Murder, will be staged in the 1955 era.

Tickets will be sold in advance at $25 each. For more information, call Susan Watt at 941-0476.

City stages

egg hunt

Romulus children can grab their baskets and begin their search for Easter eggs April 14 at the carnival grounds behind the recreation center on Bibbins Street.

For older children, 8 to 14 years, a trip to the Detroit Science Center is planned for April 19.

The center is featuring an exhibit about cartoon superheroes.

A bus will leave the recreation center at 12:15 p.m. and return at approximately 4:45 p.m. Those interested in the science center trip should register by noon April 19 at the recreation center. The cost is $4.

For more information, call the recreation center at 942-6852.

City forms

new committee

Romulus city councilmembers Monday agreed to establish a risk control committee.

The action was recommended by City Clerk Linda Choate after she learned the city liability insurance carrier, Government Risk Managers, mandated the committee.

According to GMR representatives, the committee should review incidents and potential hazards affecting the community. The committee would strictly be responsible for fact finding and resolution suggestions. It would meet monthly.

Corrections

An April 5 article about a city grant application to expand Elmer Johnson Park should have stated the facility may be expanded by 10 acres, not 20.

The 50/50 application requests $55,000 from the state. If approved, Romulus would be responsible for supplying an equal amount for the park project.

An April 5 article about elementary students graduating from a drug prevention program should have referred to the program as Drug Abuse Resistance Education, DARE.

Graduating students from the fall semester came from Barth, Halecreek and St. Aloysius schools.

Census mailings miss some local homes

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Most Romulus residents by now have received reminders from the government encouraging them to complete their 1990 United States Census forms.

Some, however, have not received the forms.

Jeffrey Martell of the Romulus Community Development Office will be spending April compiling a list of these people for the U.S. Census Bureau and ensuring they are able to participate in the count.

"The bureau will either send a letter or an enumerator," Martell said. An enumerator is a person hired to do a count in person.

Forms should have arrived in the mail during the last week in March so they could be returned during Census Week, the first week in April.

Those who have not received a form yet are urged to call

Martell at 942-7592.

Late last summer, Martell said, he worked with Census officials to prepare a pre-Census review. He divided city maps into block groups and counted the homes within each block.

Census lists were formed with this information, tax records and mailing lists purchased from private groups during September.

The addresses of those who moved to Romulus after September were expected to be supplied to the census bureau through the U.S. Postal Service.

"Somehow these people weren't included," Martell said.

Last week, Romulus city hall had received 15 calls from residents complaining they hadn't received a form yet. Martell said he has heard about similar complaints in other area communities, including Wayne.

Martell said he is concerned about what could happen if people who have not received forms do not speak out.

"It is a small problem. We might have an undercount."

Census counts are used to determine government representation, need for government or private programs for residents and the potential for success for developments.

Martell said he hopes the bureau through door-to-door enumerators will eventually locate all local residents.

Proposed system addresses blocked railroad crossings

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A former volunteer firefighter, Councilmember Russell Lambert, said he recalls instances when emergency runs were delayed by blocked railroad crossings.

heard of the warning system years ago through a newspaper article. The article discussed the first system worldwide, established 20 years ago in Wayne.

the city."

Lambert suggested contacting CSX Transportation officials, who are responsible for the majority of Romulus railroads, and explaining the proposal.

Lambert recently proposed to city councilmembers a possible solution for rescue workers - an electric hookup between local railroad crossings and public safety dispatch units.

With this system, he said, dispatchers would know when one of the many Romulus railroad crossings are blocked. Armed with that information, they could send rescue workers along unobstructed routes.

Lambert said the system could utilize low-voltage telephone lines connected to relays at railroad crossings. Perhaps existing lines or poles could be used.

"It's going to affect everybody in the city," Lambert said.

The councilmember first

In Romulus, a community marked by numerous crossings, a warning system makes sense, he said.

They might be supportive of the idea, he said, or offer financial assistance.

The idea hit home for Lambert several years ago when he was a volunteer firefighter for the city. Awakened by a call early in the morning, Lambert was dispatched to a possible heart attack case.

"Maybe they'll say they'll do hookups for us," Lambert said.

Minutes after leaving Fire Station One at Northline Road, Lambert had to stop at a nearby railroad crossing. The train had to change cars and stopped halfway across the tracks.

In his proposal to council, Lambert moved to study the potential cost of this project. He said the next step should be a meeting between city attorneys and CSX officials. After determining the interest of the railroad company, Lambert said he might move to push forward with the project.

Lambert warned the dispatcher to send another firefighter. He was trapped at the crossing 27 minutes.

Local communities utilizing the warning system include Plymouth and a downriver community. Woodhaven officials are investigating the system.

"It's a frightening situation... What if the police department is in pursuit of someone," he said. "What I'm trying to do is improve the movement of municipal vehicles throughout

"Sometimes 30 seconds, one minute, two minutes can be a matter of life and death," Lambert said. "It's (the warning system) just one way to alter that time."

Officials eye retail development potential

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Three developments under way in Romulus have the potential to bring retail stores to the community.

One development will occupy 3,300 square feet at Wayne and Ecorse roads. The building could be used for one or two rental units, according to David Paul, Romulus Building Department director.

"Hopefully, construction will begin within the next few months," Paul said.

According to zoning requirements for the development area, the building can be used only for office or retail space.

A similar project is planned for Middlebelt Road, Paul said.

"That's going to be a larger project."

Paul said this building could contain up to 10 units, again under the requirements of office or retail use.

Developing both the Wayne and Middlebelt Road projects is Jerry Jameel, owner of the Super J Party Store at Eureka and Merriman roads.

Paul said a third development zoned for retail has already been constructed at Inkster and Eureka roads. The next step for that facility, he said, are tenants.

Project

the farm.

"We've been doing school this way so long we've forgotten there's another way to do it," he continued.

While schools have changed little, Hixson said, students have changed drastically.

"They grew up with TV, computers. Kids have learned to take in information from multiple sources and process images... Do we organize school to meet their needs or force them to show up for whatever we want to offer?"

Hixson emphasized the need for major changes instead of easy solutions.

Romulus Community Schools Superintendent William Bedell credited teachers and school board members for initiating and supporting the renewal project.

"This movement is teacher driven. The teachers came to us and said 'we want a change,'" he said.

Improvement team members will attend school board meetings the second Monday of every month to report their progress.

Van Buren schools to seek millage

A request for 4 mills for two years will be placed on the June 11 Van Buren Public Schools election ballot.

School board members voted to conduct a millage drive at their March 12 meeting, but did not set an amount or length of time for the millage request.

The 4-mill request, if passed, would restore programs and services which were cut in the 1988-89 school term, said Superintendent Elvin Peets.

In November, a request for 4 mills for a three-year period was defeated by a 1,710-1,140 vote. The Van Buren School District now levies 41 mills, and approval of the proposed increase would raise the tax to 45 mills, or $45 per $1,000 of state equalized property value.

In the same school election, the two four-year terms, currently filled by Connie Brinkerhoff and Kathleen Fischer, will be placed on the ballot.

Littered home is source of resident complaints

By FLORENCE MEEKS

Partially demolished, surrounded by debris - a local house-turned-dumping-ground has become a source of irritation for a group of residents in one Romulus neighborhood.

We've been fighting with this house a couple of years. It's been an eyesore, a rat trap.

- David Paul
building director

The building is located along Arlene Court, a short residential block off Wayne and Ecorse roads.

Four years ago, nearby resident David Walker said he thought the building was a crackhouse because of the heavy volume of traffic he saw there.

"I could sit and watch out my window. It was just like Fifth Avenue," Walker said.

Eventually, he said, the homeowners left, but not before tearing the aluminum siding from the building.

When approached, these people claimed they had permission to dump from the owner, Walker said.

dent C.B. Darnell. "We've done everything we can do. We've called everyone we know to call."

Walker said resident calls led to help from the city department of public works. City workers dumped a blockade of dirt in the driveway, he said, to prevent further trucks from ditching material in the back yard.

Darnell said he lives directly next door to the abandoned home.

This ploy was ineffective, Walker said, the dirt was moved, and the dumping continued.

"It's a shame when somebody's got a mess in your neighborhood," he added.

Walker said further citizen attempts to stop the dumping through the police department have also been ineffective. A member of the city beautification committee, Walker said he is frustrated with whole situation.

City Building Director David Paul said the Arlene Court house has also been a frustration to the city.

"Everybody's discouraged," he said.

"It's a mess," added resi-

"We've been fighting with this house a couple of years," he said. "It's been an eyesore, a rat trap."

Paul said the homeowner left the building partially torn down after beginning a renovation project. The city is taking the homeowner to court for his actions, he said.

The house is now scheduled to be torn down by the city, Paul added.

Former test pilot speaks tonight

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Back in the late 1930s and early 1940s, a little village of 4,000 people watched as a housing project was constructed on the northeast border of the village to provide shelter to some 1,900 families who had moved to the area for a job at the Willow Run Airport and Bomber Plant in the Belleville area.

Wayne grew from that village of 4,000 to a city of nearly 21,000, and many residents of the city and the Norwayne area still have connections to the airport. Many worked at the airport and bomber plant during World War II, but few totally understood the final product.

The Wayne Historical Society at 8 p.m. tonight at One Town Square in Wayne will offer an opportunity to learn more about the function of the Willow Run facility as W. Wiley Reel will be the guest speaker.

Reel is a former test pilot for the B-24 Bombers built at Willow Run in the early 40s, and will speak on some of the incidents at the airport during the war. He will also bring with him a videotape of the planes and the plant of the past.

The Willow Run facility was the largest of its kind ever built, but never met the high expectations placed on it by its creator Henry Ford as a major supplier of war materials.

Student-sponsored fair promotes health awareness

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Students attempted to promote health awareness last week during a special fair staged at Romulus Senior High School.

The two-day event was sponsored by members of the Health Occupations Students Association.

"Basically, this health fair is a community project. We focus in on community health awareness," said senior Quionnesha Taylor. "We want them (students) to be aware of health issues."

Setting up shop in a large room at the high school, students offered tests for respiration, pulse, temperature, blood pressure and vision. Senses, including taste and smell, could be checked, along with the ability to detect colors.

Students also could check their weight and height.

"It's just the basic check-up you would receive anywhere else," Taylor said.

Approximately 200 students came to the fair for the screenings.

Health occupations instructor Evelyn Hopewell said her students have been preparing for the event since October.

"I taught them the skills, and they're applying them," she said.

Basically, this health fair us a community project. We focus in on community health awareness. We want them (students) to be aware of health issues.

— Quionnesha Taylor
Romulus senior student

Hopewell said one of her students, Katrina Roscoe, suggested running the fair as a promotion.

"She wanted students aware of health and environmental needs," Hopewell said.

Along with the screening are health awareness councils during class time.

One group is comprised of Amy Wallen, Rick Radford, Jimmy Vasser and Taylor.

Members of the other group are Tara Tyus, Phyllis Adams, Shawn Lloyd, Roscoe and Belleville students Kim Morgan and Tanya Davis. Working with the students is administrator Dan Hurst.

Later this month, the students will enter a state competition. The project will feature their efforts with the health fair, a blood drive, The Great American Smoke Out and the Romulus Adolescent Health Center.

During a recent parent/teacher conference night, students Don Jackson and Lori Crum offered parents tours of the health center, which is now expected to open April 26.

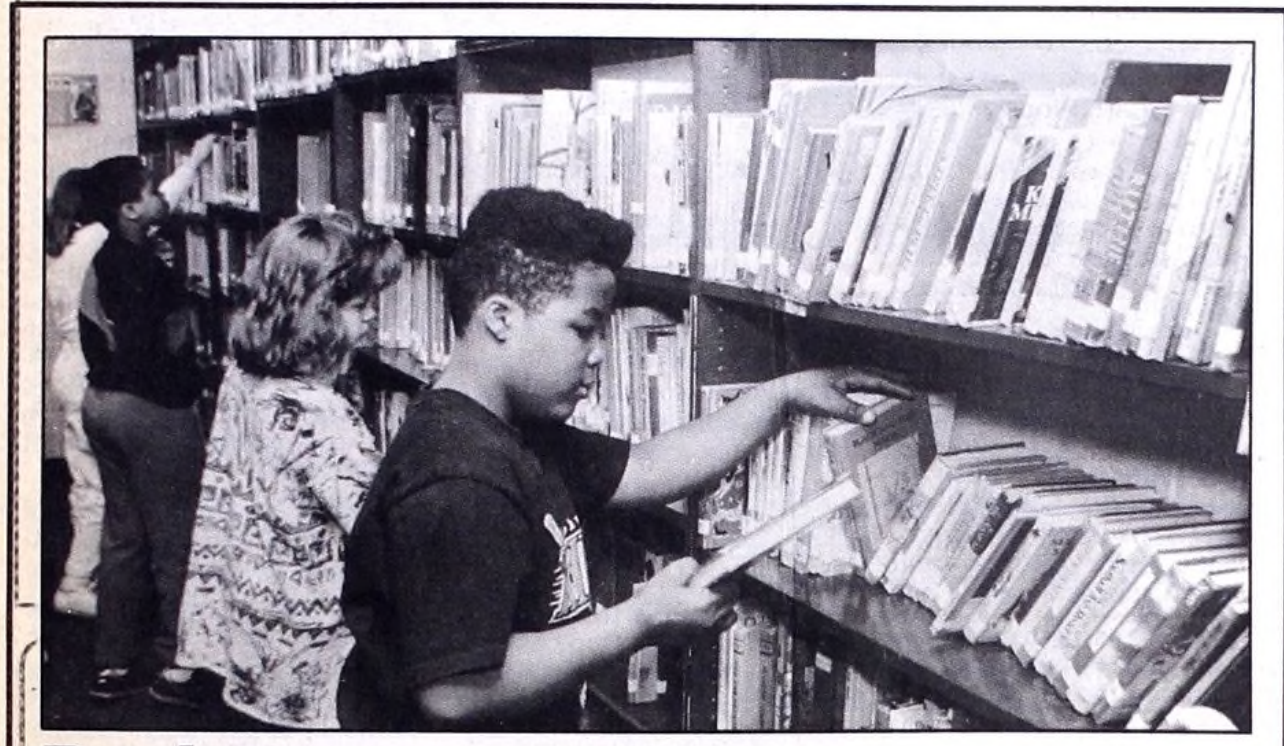

Another student, Tracey Johnson, serves on the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Council.

Taylor, who has decided to pursue a career in police work, said she values her work with HOSA.

"HOSA is a fun class, but it's a lot of work."

Hopewell said she is optimistic about her students' efforts.

"Ultimately, we should be able to make students more aware of their health needs," she said.

Eight Romulus representatives last month joined approximately 2,500 high school students at a state business conference in Detroit.

The 18th Annual Michigan State Leadership Conference of Business Professionals of American was staged March last month at the Detroit-Westin Hotel.

Students attended general sessions and competed in both skilled and leadership areas.

Participants also could attend workshops and sessions with prominent speakers.

Highlights of the event are the election of state officers and an awards session where all contest winners are announced.

The students attending this conference from Romulus Senior High School were Amy Anderson, Tracey Barker, Monique Donald, Valerie Kurtinitis, Kelly Miller, Pam O'Connor and Angie Salmons.

Citizen participation is critical to police effectiveness. Do you care about your neighborhood enough to help protect it?

The Case of The Tucson Tip-off.

In a particular neighborhood in Tucson, Arizona, folks were having a real problem with burglaries and break-ins.

They started talking to each other about what they could do. They got fed up. About 400 people went to the police for advice. They learned about surveillance. They got to know their beat officers. Citizens and police became partners in crime prevention.

In just three weeks, 17 arrests were made and burglaries went down 30%. And Tucson is only one case where people successfully worked to beat crime. To find out more, write:

Plastics recycling eyed

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara has announced plans for a pilot plastics recycling program.

The program will focus primarily on plastic containers, and will show consumers how easy it is to recycle the containers.

Also involved in the pilot program are two local companies that have volunteered to participate in the two-month program.

Reducing solid waste has always been a priority with McNamara, according to his staff members. McNamara said this project will help to educate citizens about the solid-waste problem.

"Recycling is not just a passing fad," McNamara said.

We all need to be more committed to preserving our natural resources and find more ways to protect the environment, he said.

"Recycling must become a way of life for everyone," McNamara said.

The county recycling coordinator, Les Vilcone, said plastic containers make up approximately 6 1/2 percent of the waste in streams.

"It is a crime that oil, which is a non-renewable resource, is used to make a product that is just thrown away," Vilcone said.

Less energy is used to recycle plastics than is used to make plastics from scratch, Vilcone said.

Danny's Markets in Livonia and Plymouth will be taking part in the recycling efforts. Customers of those two stores will be allowed to take clean, used plastic containers to recycling dumpsters which will be located behind the stores.

Local substance-abuse program considered model for continent

A substance abuse treatment program at an area hospital is expected to be recommended as a model for North America next week in a National Academy of Sciences study.

St. Mary Hospital officials said their Livonia facility is one of 11 sources worldwide for this program.

"It is gratifying for us at St. Mary to have that kind of recognition," said Philip O'Dwyer, clinical director of the hospital counseling center.

St. Mary has been using the program, which emphasizes patient evaluation before treatment, since 1983.

"Differential diagnosis leading to differential treatment," said O'Dwyer, describing the program.

In this approach, patients are first assessed according to level of dependence, social stability, personality functioning and reasoning functioning.

The idea is to match patients with the most effective form of treatment based on their needs.

The treatment process is monitored continuously, and feedback is given to the matching process.

O'Dwyer said this system allows flexibility. Once assessment is complete, he said, the amount of treatments that could be matched to the patient is endless.

For the study, O'Dwyer contributed three papers as a member of the Governor's Advisory Commission on Drug Abuse.

He said the study began in 1987 when the academy asked top professors and leaders in the field of substance abuse treatment from the United States and Canada to submit papers on their experiences with different treatments.

Results from the study would guide the direction for treatment and funding for the future.

The study is expected to be released to the public April 15.

O'Dwyer now is planning to disseminate the information compiled in the study, explaining how he uses the system and the results.

Profit posted
by industry

Solid profits for Michigan savings institutions were realized in 1989, according to statistics from the Michigan League of Savings Institutions.

More than $68.5 million in profits were posted by member savings institutions.

Representatives of the trade organization said its 43 members netted $9 million during the fourth quarter if 1989. This follows solid earnings in each of the first three quarters of 1989 and brings total profits to $68.6 million for the year.

Nationally, savings institutions account for nearly half of the home loans made during the year, and they hold more mortgage credit than all other types of lenders combined in the United States.

Tax deadline

New technique help
doctors at Beyer

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

An innovative diagnostic technique is aiding physicians at Beyer Hospital, Ypsilanti, to detect many conditions which previously may have required surgery to diagnose.

A nuclear imaging system, the Gamma Camera, can reconstruct three dimensional images of internal organs. While it is predominantly used to diagnose cardiac conditions, it also can scan the lungs, thyroid, liver, bones, brain and gall bladder.

Beyer Hospital nuclear medical technologist Linda Weaver explained that the camera, which utilizes gamma radiation, rotates around the patient, taking pictures at predetermined intervals. These pictures are then combined through computer enhancement to form a three-dimensional image.

Unlike conventional x-rays, which produce a flat image, nuclear scanning produces a detailed and specific picture of how the body is working, Weaver said.

In addition, the technologist said, scans are valuable for cancer treatment follow-up. Lung clots can be detected with the Gamma Camera, and internal bleeding and thyroid disorders also can be diagnosed with the new scanning process.

Beyer Hospital, a division of United Care, offers a full range of health care services, including a 24-hour emergency room, obstetrics/gynecology, medical/surgical and intensive care units.

Manager honored

Dan Russell, manager of the Detroit Airport Red Roof Inn, Belleville, has been inducted into the 1990 Managers Council of the Red Roof Inns.

The Manager's Council serves as a forum for top managers and corporate management to exchange ideas that affect company operations.

A Belleville resident, Russell joined Red Roof Inns in 1984.

CELEBRATING OUR 30TH ANNIVERSARY

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

New meaning for education

The word "education" has taken on a whole new meaning in today's society. And not for the better. It is no longer reading, writing and arithmetic. Taxpayers are being bilked out of millions of dollars supposedly to "educate" the youth. With the Department of Education regarding even newborns "at risk" in today's society (aren't we all?), health programs have become the main focus in both public and private schools. Children are being regarded as "in need" of psychological counseling and guidance to assist them in removing themselves from the traditional values instilled by parents at an exorbitant cost to taxpayers. And the children still can't read.

Taxpayers were pushed to the limit when 3 teen health centers were established within a 10-mile radius in Inkster, Taylor and Romulus at a cost of well over $100,000 per center to start and increased as services were added. Of course transportation for youth to just one teen center would have been unthinkable! The MICHIGAN MODEL or WELLNESS CURRICULUM being implemented in schools reaps hundreds and thousands of tax dollars for "comprehensive health" programs. The MICHIGAN MODEL materials center is the single largest purchaser of school health materials in the U.S. And the children still can't read.

More taxes for education? It could depend on what kind. Accountability for tax dollars allocated to "education" should be primary in our concerns. If people want deprogrammed, retrained and reprogrammed automations of the state, then let them continue doling out their hard-earned dollars to these redundant, detrimental so-called "comprehensive health" programs. The children probably won't learn how to read, but the state will attempt to give them "attitude enhancement" in their ignorance.

Taxpayers heal yourselves!

Police force is inadequate

Law Enforcement!! Where is it? Years ago I started writing letters to the Governor and Richard Austin about the blood bath on our streets and highways. A long time ago I remember a TV series call Car 54, Where Are You? At that time we all laughed and thought it was funny. A police car numbered 54 was sent to Garden City and the police got mad and had the number changed on that car. Channel 7 and 2 made a big issue out of a sign falling on cars where 3 people were killed. What about the thousands that are killed in accidents on our highways and getting worse all the time? At 60 MPH in 1 second a car travels 300 feet, yet when I drive my car on the streets other cars drive on top of me and other cars. For every 10 MPH there should be a car length apart. Let's not worry about the atomic bomb. Watch out for the person who drives about 5 feet off your bumper at 65 or 70 MPH. We are hostages on our streets. The reasons are lack of law enforcement and people breaking the me from Lansing I'm told we have quality police on the job. Last year in Dearborn Heights when I stopped for a traffic light and a police car stopped next to me. Three cars went through that red light. Is that quality? Maybe that policeman would have violated their rights if he would have ticketed them. To hell with our rights. I wish I had the power in me to raise General Patton from the dead and put in charge of Law Enforcement. In talks with people around me this problem gets worse all the time.

Mayor makes a mistake

The Mayor of Romulus will never admit she made a mistake, but when she didn't reappoint Mrs. Dick, that was a major mistake. The article that appeared in the Roman two weeks ago was very misleading. 95 percent of the programs are already being offered. In the last two months:

- The dinner theatres have been cancelled
- The ski trips have not taken place
- The mother-son dance (in which my son and I attend) was totally disorganized. If the daddy-daughter dance is that disorganized the dance will be a disaster
- All the bowling events are now being run through the bowling alley, with no assistance from the recreation department
- There is more emphasis on winning in the Youth Basketball Program than letting the kids play, I mean all the kids. My son has played a total of 10 minutes in three games. This is not how the soccer and floor hockey programs were run. My son doesn't wish to finish out the remainder of the season.

I think before any new programs begin, Mr. Martin should concentrate on the events already in progress. If anyone else feels as I, they should let their feeling be known before all the programs go down the tubes.

BELLE CARD PERSONAL CHECK "ASK ABOUT OUR TIRE GUARD"

Teachers take care with delicate cargo

Recent tragic developments have made us all painfully aware of how impressionable young people can be. A word, a nickname, a book, a movie could all have a much bigger impact than we imagine on the mind of a youngster.

In Canton Township, a young man in the prime of his life mimics a training exercise in a magazine. He is dead. Also in Canton Township, a child watches a movie in school about suicide. The next day he is dead.

In the latter case, it is yet unclear if the movie had an impact on the child which triggered him to commit suicide or to attempt a stunt which left him dead. We can only await the findings of investigators, and then in our own mind find the reasons.

The issue has been raised, however, and we must focus attention on the matter to avoid future tragedy.

Our children go to school every day. Teachers sometimes spend more time with our youngsters than we do ourselves and, therefore, the information presented in schools is of such a crucial nature.

We teach our children to obey the teacher, and to not talk back. We teach our children to sit quietly at their desk and take part in classroom activities.

But what if an activity is not be particularly educational? What if a book or movie goes totally against the feelings of the family? What if a book or movie raises an issue of which the parent is not aware?

The movie this young child watched in school was not previewed by the teacher. It was clearly labeled for students in fourth grade and older. It was shown to second graders.

Does this indicate caution in the area of educating young, impressionable children? We think not.

Showing such a movie to a group of impressionable students with no outlet for them to discuss it was irresponsible. It was a matter of not using good judgement.

Even if the unfortunate accident had not happened afterward, it was poor judgement to show the movie.

The banning of books and movies is not necessarily the answer. Such bans are clearly a restriction of our Constitutional rights, and cannot be tolerated.

Perhaps, in the case, if the movie had been previewed by parents or teachers, they would have realized it required a much more mature audience. Perhaps if parents has been notified of the showing of the movie, they could have been prepared to talk with their child and discuss the issues raised.

Hind site, of course, is wonderful. And none of us can know for sure what this particular little boy was thinking, or that the young man would attempt the illustrated exercises. We cannot know what other students in the class were feeling.

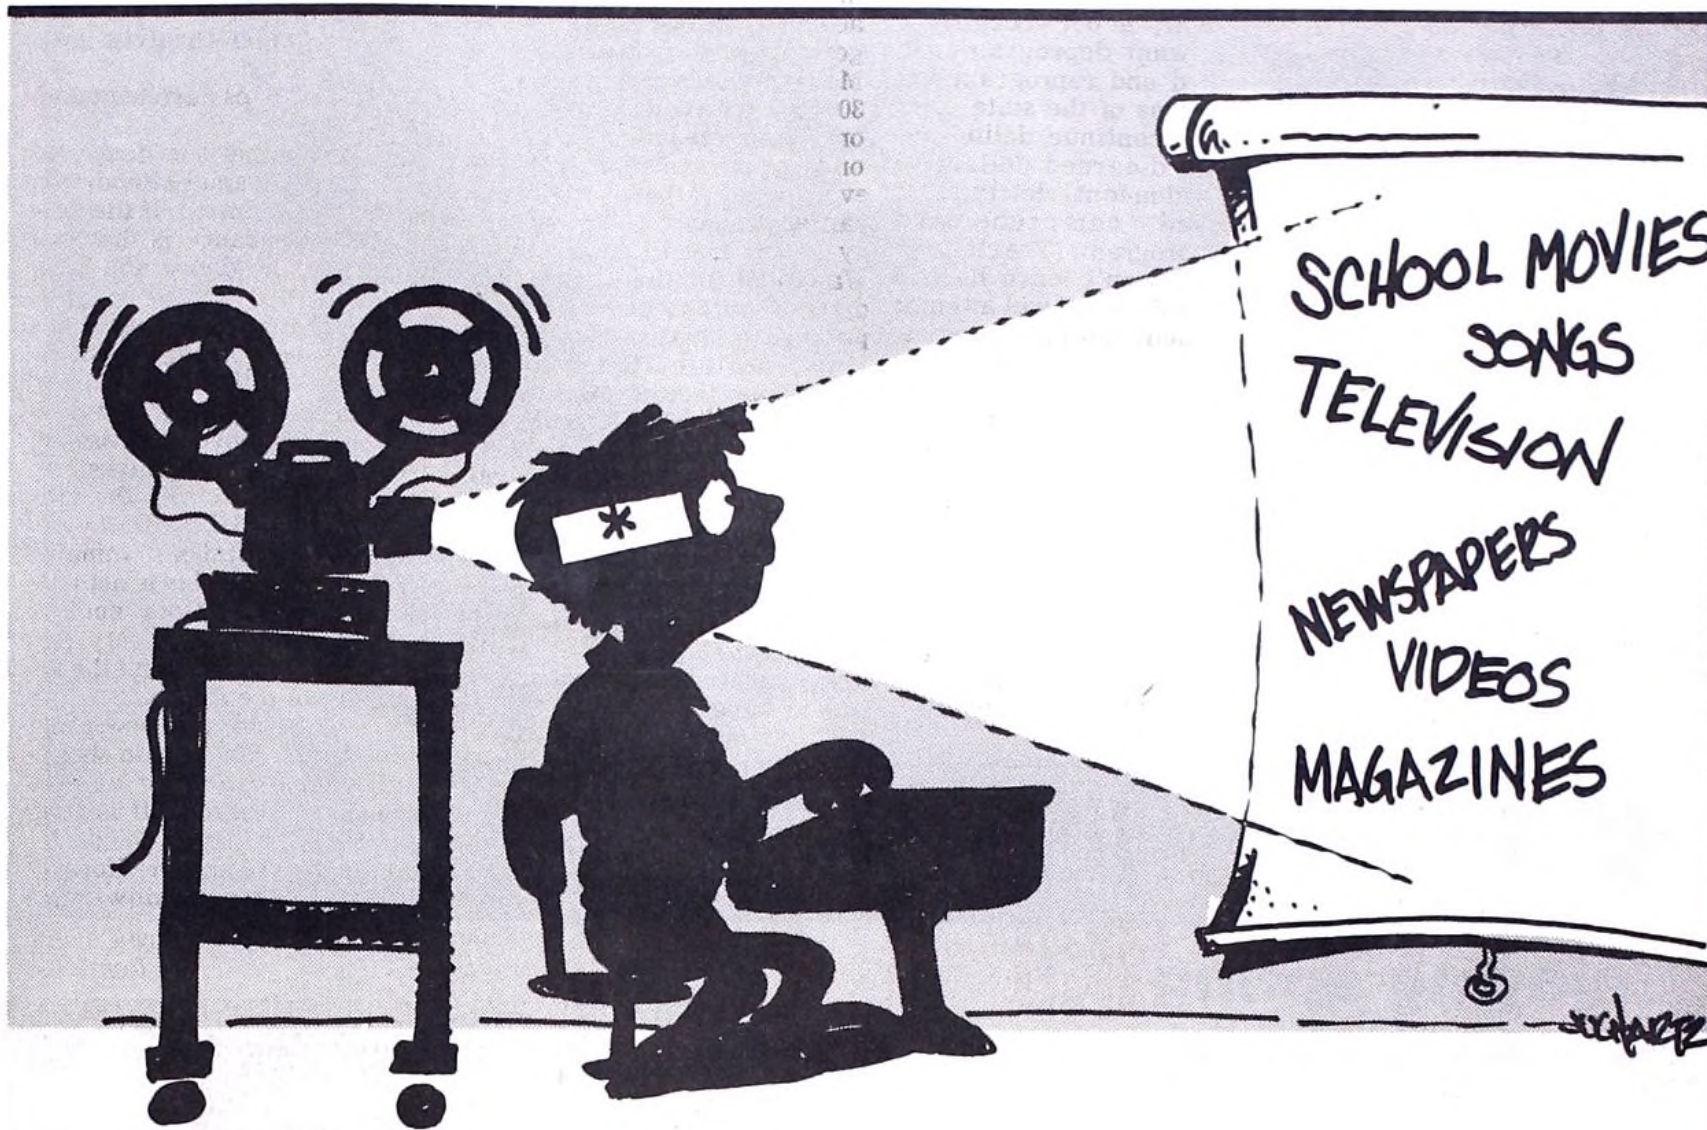

We can, however, look back and learn. Consider the options that could have been taken and consider all the consequences of not using good judgement.

Teachers have an awesome responsibility. One that too many people underestimate.

Teachers guide our children, and are instrumental in making them responsible adults, able to make difficult decisions.

If the job is too much for some, and jobs such as previewing educational materials cannot be a priority. Perhaps parents can help ease the burden by volunteering to preview and rate them for the teachers.

Someone needs to take responsibility for this one task. The movies, books, television programs and magazines our children see impact their lives. And we must all be prepared to deal with the emotions that are generated.

Abortion issue has many sides

So determined is Mrs. Sonda Stepchuck to impress her views on abortion; to take away women's choice. Is she, then, equally determined to lobby for and even march for low-cost housing, small apartments at minimal cost for these young girls, forced into motherhood to house these saved children in, and the welfare checks to support them on which their boyfriends often live, too.

Will she lobby for more money? Only a generation ago, young unwed mothers were compelled to give their child for adoption. This was the better choice, the only choice. However some even died rather than go through the shameful disgrace it was deemed, then, by society. Not so today. Unwed mothers go to college on government grants, their babies in baskets. No longer a disgrace, but acceptable, even condoned. The result: drug- and alcohol-addicted babies no one wants, child abuse on the rise. Not a good future at all.

Exception is taken

In my first few weeks as mayor of Westland, I made a recommendation to the city council to award the contract for Westland's Official Newspaper to the Observer and Eccentric instead of the Associated Newspapers. I based my recommendation on the belief that the Observer and Eccentric would give us better coverage, unbiased reporting, the better quality overall for our residents. Now it seems that the Associated Newspapers are going to do their best to punish me forever for that decision, even if it means giving Westland a "Black Eye" in the process.

I am referring to the last couple of editorials in the Westland Eagle, one on the fire station openings, and one about the photo of me which appeared in the Detroit Free Press.

In the Eagle's editorial (3-08-90) on the fire station openings, they stated that they chose to believe the "experts", the Firefighters Union. Let me point out that Fire Chief Larry Lane is an "expert", and he agrees that the new staffing plan will improve our service. Isn't it strange that the Eagle would rather endorse a plan that would close a station entirely with no fire or rescue response instead of a plan which would leave it open with a rescue there to respond to calls for help?

The latest attack was when the Eagle (3-15-90) accused me of damaging Westland's image and being a "clown" as well as numerous other accusations. I believe when people read this editorial they will see the deliberate attempt by the Eagle to go much further than necessary to emphasize that the article in the Detroit Free Press was not in good taste and to let me know to be a little more cautious of any such further publicity. Instead, the Eagle went overboard and flatly insulted my personal integrity and that was unnecessary.

The article in the Detroit Free Press was nothing more than a tongue-in-cheek article on the different perks that suburban mayors have compared to other big city mayors like Detroit. I told the Detroit Free Press that I did not have a jet or any armor-plated limousine, but I did have a private bathroom in my office, and the story went on from there. I do not think it was done in bad taste, and I certainly did not mean to insult anyone, and if I did, I do apologize. I am proud of Westland and honored to be its mayor. I will always strive to improve Westland's image. I will leave the negativism and "Black Eye" image for the Eagle since it seems to be doing a good job at it.

The Eagle's coverage of the first Town Hall Meeting (3-15-90) confirms that claim. Here I have created a format to allow citizens to come before the administration to ask questions and make requests. I believe this to be a positive step for Westland and should have been portrayed in a good light. But what does the Eagle report? The Eagle runs a small article on some of the questions asked at the meeting and then runs a lengthy article, three times as long, about the negative aspects of the meeting. In particular, the complaint from Mr. Haverstick, who has admitted that he is not the owner of the business involved concerning the property in question on Newburgh.

I could go on but what would be the point. I suppose I can expect the Eagle to continue to portray the negative aspects and to forget any good that goes on, especially concerning the Mayor's office. I can live with that. It is a free country, and we have free speech, that is what makes America such a great place to live.

I certainly hope that in the future the Eagle will at least show some respect for the Office of the mayor in its editorials as well as its reporting. And I hope the Eagle has not completely lost its sense of humor.

Assistance available for area young people

With 19 Youth Assistance Programs already established in Wayne County, YAP organizers are crusading to implement programs in each community in the county.

Christelle Burns, executive director of the Michigan Training and Resource Center, Inc., is encouraging other Wayne County communities to join the program which has been instrumental in turning many youthful offenders into more productive citizens.

The program is a prevention and diversion effort, which targets youths between the ages of seven and 16, who have been identified by the courts, police or schools as potential delinquents, or who have already committed a minor offense. The youths are matched with volunteers, who provide one-on-one counseling under the direction of a professional therapist.

"We try to intervene at an early stage, before the youth has become involved in a serious offense," said Burns, whose center provides the training and initial organization of the programs.

The youth is matched with a volunteer who has completed a 15-hour training program focusing on communication skills, decision-making and problem-solving, the YAP organizer said. The volunteer, in turn, helps the youth to deal with his or her problems using the same skills.

During the YAP intervention period, the youths may receive referrals to other services, along with their parents and siblings who may also need help in dealing with their problems.

The cost of the program is kept at a minimum, because the one permanent staff member is the major expense incurred by the local programs, Burns said.

County parks events slated

Area residents are invited to welcome spring during April by attending several special events planned by the Wayne County Department of Public Services - Division of Parks.

■ Youngsters will gather tomorrow for the annual Great Marshmallow Drop at the Nankin Mills Picnic Area, Middle Rouge Parkway.

Approximately 20,000 marshmallows will be dropped from a passing helicopter at 11 a.m. Children will then be turned loose to collect a marshmallow can. The marshmallow can then be turned in for a prize-filled egg.

The event last year was packed with people making an early appearance. The Easter bunny will be on hand to greet children and to entertain them as they wait for the big event.

In case of rain, the event will be staged at 11 a.m. Saturday.

■ Youngsters love to get dirty, and on April 18 they will have their "day in the mud." Wayne County parks and Tubs and Tumblers Coin Laundry and Dry Cleaning will host the annual Mud Day event at 11 a.m. April 18 at the Nankin Mills Picnic Area, Middle Rouge Parkway.

Children of all ages will be permitted to wallow in mud, and then Mr. and Ms. Mud will be crowned.

In case the predicted high temperature is less than 50 degrees, Mud Day will be postponed until June 9.

Participants should wear old, old clothes and shoes. A towel should be brought along as well as clean clothes. A changing area will be provided as well as garbage bags for soiled clothing. No showers or hot water is available at the site.

Parking is limited, so officials recommend car pools when possible.

■ For the first time, the county parks department and WJBK-TV will team up to host a $1,000,000 Hole-in-one Shoot-out beginning April 24.

Final arguments heard in checkpoints case

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge James Rashid will hear closing arguments from attorneys representing Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano and the American Civil Liberties Union May 12.

Acting on behalf of former Inkster Mayor Edward Bevins and State Senator William Faust, the Michigan chapter of the ACLU is suing the county sheriff for alleged violations of the state constitution, in the setting up of roadblocks and traffic checkpoints. The suit contends that these procedures violate the search and seizure provisions of the fourth amendment to the state constitution.

In September of 1989, acting on behalf of the city of Inkster, the sheriff set up traffic checkpoints on Spruce Street and around the Demby Terrace public housing project. The areas were high-traffic, drug-dealing areas, according to police. The goal was to discourage illegal drugs in the area, police said.

In the first and only day of operation, the deputies stopped about 75 motorists and issued 44 tickets for offenses ranging from driving a vehicle without a valid license to failing to use a child safety seat.

However, no drug or felony arrests were made, according to police reports.

Howard Simon, executive director of the Michigan American Civil Liberties Union, protested the sheriff's action. The MACLU went to court and obtained an injunction to stop the sheriff from setting up similar traffic checkpoints.

Attorney Karen Watkins, representing the sheriff and the county, explained to the court that the sheriff's actions have legal support. It has been held by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, United States v. McFayden, (Jan. 24, 1989) that stops of vehicles are permissible if made either at fixed traffic checkpoints or on reasonable suspicions, she said.

Robert Ficano

Sen. William Faust

During court testimony, Simon labeled the checkpoints as "a poor substitute for conventional drug enforcement."

ACLU attorney Neal Bush has argued that the roadblocks are a violation of citizens' right to be free from unreasonable search and seizure.

More than 20 witnesses testified, including Ficano and Inkster Police Chief Terry Colwell, during the bench trial.

Concluding remarks before Rashid will begin at 2 p.m. Court officials said that, although they do not know how long it will take before Rashid will hand down his decision.

Associated Newspapers All-area Basketball Team

Versatility is key to 'unbeatable team'

Virgil Davis exemplifies the kind of all-around athlete picked for the 1990 All-Area Team. A star on the gridiron as well on the basketball court, the 5-9, 150-pound deft ballhandler took command in the post-season play and helped the Eagles of Romulus capture a Class A district championship. The Eagles, with a long history of outstanding cage talent, and with the help of Davis managed to reach the regional finals before bowing out of the tournament after losing to Plymouth Salem.

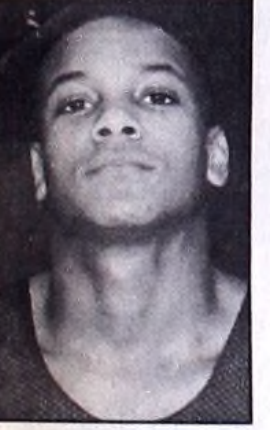

Paul Gardette is a two-year veteran of Belleville's outstanding team. The Tigers' floor leader, Gardette contributed 12 points per game and seven assists as Coach Michael Garland's point guard. Garland considers his senior guard "as one of the most underrated point guards in the state. When we played Southwestern (Detroit), Paul outplayed their kid and proved he could play against the best of them." Detroit Southwestern went undefeated during the 1989-90 season and won the Class A state title after being ranked the No. 1.

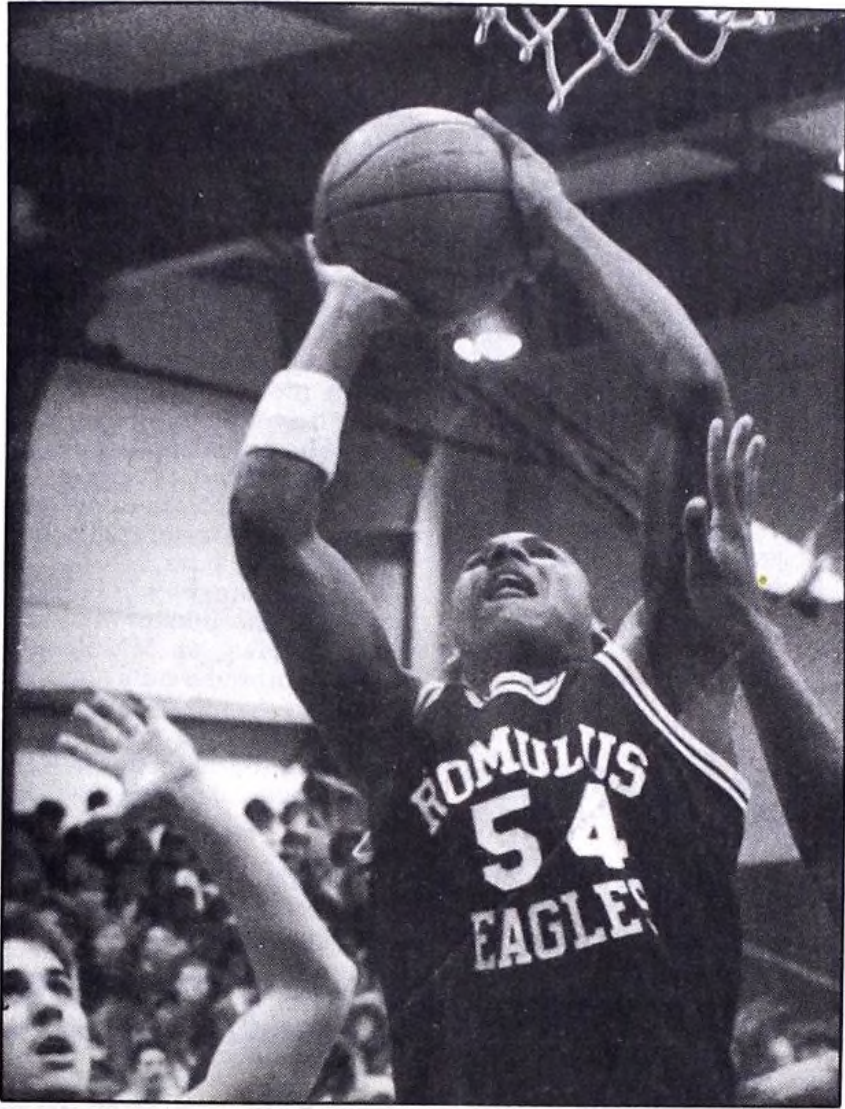

Marcus Kewley, "the enforcer", set a single game blocked-shot record of 16 against reigning Suburban Athletic Conference champ, Highland Park. He racked up 12.6 rebounds per game and chipped in with 10 ppg. An All-League candidate, who kept his team in the thick of the SAC title race, Kewley was 'chairman of the board' at both ends of the court. "We went into this season figuring that we would have the services of three players, who definitely were 'blue chip' performers.

Ron Hunter is considered one of the finest players to ever wear a Belleville High uniform. The 6-4, 215-pound junior, who has yet another year of eligibility ahead of him, scored at a 16-points-per-game clip. Phenomenal also on the boards, Hunter nabbed 29 rebounds in a winning cause against Westland John Glenn to set a Belleville single game record. "Coaches knew that they had to handle Hunter if they wanted to beat us," Coach Michael Garland said.

Larry Perkins was voted the MVP of the Romulus team. Within a period of two years, this 6-1, 175-pound senior established himself as one of the finest shooters and players in the tough South Central Conference. He hit on 60 percent of his attempts from the field, averaging 14 ppg. "Larry is a great competitor and leader," said Coach Chris Molloy. "He is the kind of player coaches enjoy having on their team because he can do so many things so well. Perkins also was aggressive on the boards.

Muscling two Taylor Kennedy players aside, Romulus High's Marlan Hicks (54) dumps in two points. The action was part of the recent Class A district playoffs and of the exciting 1989-90 high school cage campaign. ANP photo

Thompson top cage coach

George Thompson, Jr. should have seen the handwriting on the wall when three of his key players were ruled ineligible for the 1989-90 basketball season.

He admitted he did. But his players wouldn't believe it.

The Viking coach, who has had his ups and downs during his 22 years as coach, figured that this would be "another one of those long seasons." After all he lost Gary Johnson. Kevin Pingston. Art Asberry - three sterling candidates.

And it would have been a so-so year for the Vikings if it had not been for the determination - "sheer guts" - of those who reported back to the lineup.

"They just told themselves that they were going to be contenders," said Thompson. "And they were, right down to the last game."

Inkster, which led the pack until they were forced to hand over one victory to Oak Park for use of an ineligible cager, finished with a 15-7 record and second-place in the Suburban Athletic Conference.

Voted the SAC's top coach, Thompson also receives the Associated Newspapers' vote as 'Coach of the Year' in basketball.

"What made this team a winner," Thompson said, "is that, I believe, the players wanted to prove to themselves they, too, could win - with or without the three."

"It wasn't one person, but all of them contributing that made them winners." And that's what being a team is all about.

Torrey Mills is following in the footsteps of two noted family members. His uncle, Johnny Long, and brother, Terry Mills, are Romulus High products. Long went on to star at the University of Detroit before joining the Detroit Pistons and enjoying a long professional basketball career, while Mills has helped the University of Michigan win a national title, and is expected to sign a pro contract within weeks.

Tyrone Wheatley, probably the best all-around athlete in the history of the Westwood School District, carried Robichaud through a difficult and transitory season. Under first-year coach, Ron Tarrant, the Bulldogs finished at the bottom of the SAC pile. But, despite the dismal year, Wheatley was nominated for all-conference recognition after scoring in double digits and nailing down two-figure rebounds in the majority of the Bulldogs' games this season. An all-state griddy who also holds the state's long jump record.

Matt Holtan, the lone sophomore to break into the All-Area lineup, led the New Boston Huron Chiefs into the finals of the Class B district tournament. The good-looking 6-4, 185-pound center-forward averaged 12 points per game and also had nine rebounds per outing. "We didn't have a good season," said interim head coach Terry Suemnick, "and if it had not been for Holtan, it could have been worse. He helped carry this team through some hard times."

Tyron Orr, a cager who coach George Thompson Jr. never had to motivate, "came ready to play each game." The 6-3, 180-pound senior finished his prep cage career with a 21 points per game and four assists pg. average. A unanimous coaches' choice for all-Suburban Athletic Conference honors, Orr helped the Vikings post a 15-7 record and finish second to Highland Park in the SAC. When three veteran players were sidelined because of ineligibility, Orr stepped in, filled the void, and got the job done for the Vikings.

Benjie Goldston, a small forward for the Tigers of Belleville, was a vital key in Coach Michael Garland's strategy. "He did a great job for us," said Garland, whose 1990 Tigers finished second to Wayne Memorial in the Wolverine 'A' Conference with a 15-6 record. Goldston averaged nine points and six rebounds per game, but the stats don't tell half the story. Goldston gave up four to five inches to his rivals, and was still able to muscle his way to and around the boards.

Here's how we choose all-area

Over the past 25 years, the Associated Newspapers' All-Area basketball teams have included some of the finest prep cagers in the country. To name a few - Johnny Long, Terry Mills, Eartha Faust, and Grant Long.

And the 1989-90 All-Area candidates have shown the same brilliance. Only time and fortune will tell if these talented preps will reach the pro ranks.

They have reached one milestone in the climb to the top. Prep coaches and ANP sports personnel believed that the nominees were the 'top guns' in a field that included a lot of talent.

Next week, the ANP belatedly will honor the candidates of the 1989 All-Area high school girls' basketball teams. Don't miss it as we continue our coverage of high school sports.

Hawley to chair state sports board

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial High School Athletic Director William Hawley was elected March 19 as president of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association at the mid-winter meeting.

More than 400 of the 712 state athletic directors attended the conference at the Grand Traverse Resort and cast votes for the post.

The association was formed 29 years ago to assist high school athletic directors in serving their communities and to improve the student-athlete. Former Wayne Memorial and John Glenn Athletic Director Don Domke was one of the founding members of the organization, and currently serves as the executive secretary.

"Don does a great job handling the finances of the group," Hawley said.

The organization, Hawley said, will continue to assist athletic directors in doing their jobs by offering workshops covering rule changes and the like.

"When everyone knows the job and the rules, it makes everyone better," he said.

The MIAAA will continue to serve as a watchdog group to protect student-athletes from influences such as drugs and unscrupulous recruiters.

"Our group came out with the first resolution against the use of anabolic steroids in high school," Hawley said. "Other groups around the country have adopted the idea we presented."

State champs Blanchette wins Class F cage title

Blanchette Middle School cagers added a sparkling gem to their city crown.

Representing the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department at the state tournament in Flint after finishing atop of the Class F Division, Coach Freddie Parker and the Cougars recently traveled to Flint and competed for the state title.

The Cougars managed to keep their 10-game winning streak intact and won the coveted state championship.

"We had some outstanding individual performances by our players," said Parker,

"however, winning the state title was a complete team effort.

"Each and every member of our team did what was expected of him, and that's why we won."

Blanchette's lineup included seventh-graders: Ambrose Gibbs, James Outlaw, Gregory Prewitt, and Albert White; representing the eighth-graders in the winning lineup are: Maurice Bullard, Tyrone Dallas, LaWellyn Elliott, and Cordell Gibbs.

Sylvester Mosley, Blanchette principal, said the city and the community "are proud of these students.

Benefit basketball game set

Four Inkster teams, made up of municipal employees, will be shooting baskets to help raise funds for D.A.R.E. - Drug Abuse Resistance Education - a unique program that helps school-age children learn how to say 'No' to drugs.

The tournament, billed "Inkster's Only Four", will be staged two days, beginning April 26 and culminating on April 27. In the opening round, a team made up of Inkster Parks and Recreation employees will take on their counterparts from the Fire Department at 6:30 p.m.; in the nightcap at 8, the DPW squad will play a motley team from the police department.

The championship will be decided the following evening at 8 p.m. A consolation game, between the two losers, is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

The tournament will be conducted at the Inkster Recreation Complex, on Middlebelt Road, a third of a mile north of Michigan Avenue. There is a 50 cents per evening - or 75 cents per entire tournament - admission charge. All proceeds will go toward the local D.A.R.E. program.

The public is also invited to compete in a free-throw and three-point shooting contest.

Rocket coach resigns

Westland John Glenn is in the market for a new head basketball coach.

Robert Killingbeck, whose 1989-90 team finished with an even .500 (10-10) record, has resigned as head coach. Killingbeck said that he "has been spending too much time with basketball, and am looking forward to doing other things."

School officials said that they will post the vacancy immediately and would hope to find a replacement as soon as possible.

Take to the high road for your summer vacation

The arrival (I think) of warm weather leaves many in the area with the enviable task of planning summer vacations.

More vacationers than ever this summer will utilize one of the oldest methods of travel — the caravan.

As a means of survival, ancient travelers grouped together in caravans for protection as they crossed the countryside; centuries later, early Americans rode in caravans of covered wagons as they headed west through hostile lands.

Today, "caravanning" has taken on a new meaning in the spirit of adventure. Friends band together with their recreational vehicles to set out through the country in search of fun. There are many caravan companies, national camping clubs and recreational vehicle owners clubs offering local weekend getaways, road rallies or more extended trips.

Well-organized caravans offered through companies or RV owners' clubs can take the hassle out of trip planning because tour professionals act as travel agents, planning, routing and handling campground reservations.

Caravans usually include 20 to 40 vehicles, led by an experienced "wagonmaster." He serves as host, keeping the caravan running smoothly and on schedule and acting as tour guide. His assistant, the "tail-gunner," travels behind the caravan and is responsible for handling any mechanical problems.

The "caravanners" usually travel in small groups on the highways. Because each driver has a detailed itinerary, some can travel independently if desired before meeting at pre-arranged destinations.

"Caravanning" can be the perfect vacation for RV owners who want to spend time with friends while vacationing, but also desire some privacy.

For more RV information, including a list of national camping clubs, contact the Recreational Vehicle Industry Association, P.O. Box 2999, Dept. RK, Reston, VA 22090.

Solar-powered racers in town

The largest solar-powered auto race in the United States, the GM Sunrayce USA, will wind through Michigan July 18 and 19, General Motors officials announced recently.

The race, for university engineering students, will follow a 1,800-mile course over U.S. and state secondary roads beginning July 9 in Orlando, Fla., and winding through eight states ending at the GM Technical Center in Warren.

The culmination of the race will be a homecoming for three of the competing teams. Teams from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo and Jordan College in Grand Rapids will join a team from the University of Michigan in the competition.

"GM Sunrayce USA provides student engineers with a unique way to apply course work to solving real-life problems and challenges. The 32 teams in the race have some of North America's top engineering and science students," said David L. Runkle, vice president of the GM Advanced Engineering Staff. "The rest of us will have a rare chance to see solar power in action and perhaps get a glimpse of future automotive technology."

Race winners will be determined by the lowest elapsed time to complete the course. Sunlight is the only power source, but battery charging from the solar array of the car is allowed twice daily.

GM will sponsor the top three teams to compete in the World Solar Challenge race in Australia in November.

This week we need chocolate

Just Desserts

Sue Willett

Only three more days, just 72 more hours and maybe, just maybe things will change.

If it doesn't happen then, it may never happen and if the present conditions continue, this is going to be a very bad year indeed.

During the past 10 days or so, there has been more personal trauma, tragedy and bad luck than has been known in several lifetimes. If the writers of those afternoon soap operas ever exhaust themselves of weird ideas for misfortune and convoluted plot twists, they need only talk to members of this staff about the past couple of weeks. There is enough material here to keep them going for months. Years, the way they drag it out.

Not that I can personally speak to the soap opera conditions of today. I stopped watching these exercises in vicarious misery several years ago. A lifetime or two ago, I would dash home from school to watch these sagas and was just as involved as any other juvenile starved for some real life emotional experience. My viewing was curtailed, however, when I went to work, got a life and had to face problems of my own.

Several years later, I mean SEVERAL years later, I was forced to curtail my activities due to illness and tuned back into my former favorite soaps while waiting for my medication to take effect. I understood everything that was going on from day one. I still knew all the characters, the plots, who was scheming against whom and which child belonged to which wife or mistress. It was actually sort of spooky. Obviously, the first step I took was to curtail my intake of medication, but even without the benefit of chemicals, the plot was still the same. And I understood it.

I swore off the drugs and the soaps at the same time, but this last week or so has been a trial for even my resolve. It would sure be comforting to ignore my own problems and spend all my emotional energy on some rather mundane television plots. Hey, with a staff like this one and a family like mine, I could write that stuff, except nobody would believe it.

But, Easter will be here Sunday and that holiday always marks new beginnings, no matter what your religious beliefs. Personally, I can't wait.

I've been trying to brighten up the lives of the members of our staff who have suffered personal loss, auto accidents, family trauma, illnesses and assorted mistreatment by various controlling agencies by promising them things will improve after Easter. I've gone so far as to have thought about making them some wonderful chocolate treats to cheer them. I haven't done it, or even mentioned it and probably won't...but I have thought about it. I even found two wonderful recipes for them which I'm sharing with you.

It's going to get better. The sun will shine and dispositions and circumstances will improve for everybody. Of course, we do have to get through Friday the 13th and the IRS tax deadline first.

I may have to make them dessert after all.

Chocolate Bavarian cream

8 custard cups
1 cup milk, divided
1 teaspoon flour
4 eggs, separated

Satisfy a sweet tooth

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Tiny chocolate bunnies with pink whiskers, vanilla chicks and ducks along with sugar eggs glazed in pastels - Easter candy is undeniably cute.

As elaborate as some confections can be, preparing a molded bunny can be amazingly quick and simple, according to veteran candy-maker Linda Pratt.

"You can get real detailed pieces without a lot of work," she said.

Pratt is co-owner of Baker's Acre, a Garden City shop loaded with the essentials for candy-making and cake-decorating. Often, these tools are interchangeable.

A class in candy-making offered by a supplier was enough to hook Pratt and her husband a few years ago. They decided to experiment on their own, and managed to perfect more complicated recipes.

For people still in the learning stages, confectioner's coating is the easiest medium to work with, Pratt said. Unlike "real chocolate," it does not contain cocoa butter.

"You really have to have a good palate to notice the difference."

A more important difference, the coating allows for mistakes.

"If you make a boo boo you just melt it down and start over again," Pratt said. "There's not too much you can do to ruin it."

Another option, of course, is eating the mistake.

If the coating is destroyed, the cook either overheated it or added water.

Most candy recipes do call for melting the coating in a double-boiler, but at a very low temperature. Pratt suggested the 100-degree mark or below.

"The temptation is to zap up the stove," she said. "The heat should be nowhere near the cooking point."

If it is overheated, the coating is impossible to work with.

The addition of water is also disastrous, producing a lumpy, gloppy substance.

Even small amounts can have this effect, Pratt said. Thus, avoid stirring the coating with a wet spoon or allowing water from the double-boiler to splash in the top pot.

When she lets children work with the material, Pratt always warns them about licking their fingers and sticking them back in the coating.

Once the coating is successfully melted, it can be used to coat fillings - raisins, cherries, peanuts - or whatever creativity calls for.

"All you need is a fork," Pratt said. "You don't have to be real fancy. It's a real simple process with the coating."

Another option is molded candy. Candy molds are made from food-approved plastics treated to avoid sticking. In fact, Pratt said, greasing the molds can make releasing the candy difficult.

She instructed pouring the melted coating into the mold cavities and tapping it gently to pop air bubbles.

The candy is then frozen just until solid. Small molds only need two or three minutes. Larger creations may require 10 to 15 minutes.

If the candy is left in the freezer too long (a few hours) it becomes sticky as it thaws.

Pratt said adding colored features to the candy is simple. For a bunny meant to have blue eyes and a pink nose, dip a toothpick in food coloring and "paint" the eye and nose sections of the mold. Then pour in the melted coating. As the mixture freezes, the colors will meld with the chocolate.

"It's a good type of thing for kids to do. Even preschoolers can work with this without causing a whole lot of stress."

Pratt said the recipes she provided are for people perfecting their candy skills. A final tip for beginners - wear cotton gloves while working with the chocolate coating. They prevent moisture from the hands or fingerprints from affecting the final product.

Pina Colada Bars

Number 1 yellow coating
1 tablespoon paramount crystals
1 cup desiccated coconut
3/4 cup marshmallow creme
1/2 cup Eagle Brand milk
3» cup pecan pieces
Rum oil flavoring

Melt coating with crystals. While coating is melting, mix and heat until smooth: coconut, marshmallow, milk and pecan pieces. Add two or three drops rum oil flavoring. Spread in foil-lined pan; refrigerate until set. Cut into bars. Serve as is or drizzle with melted chocolate flavoring coating.

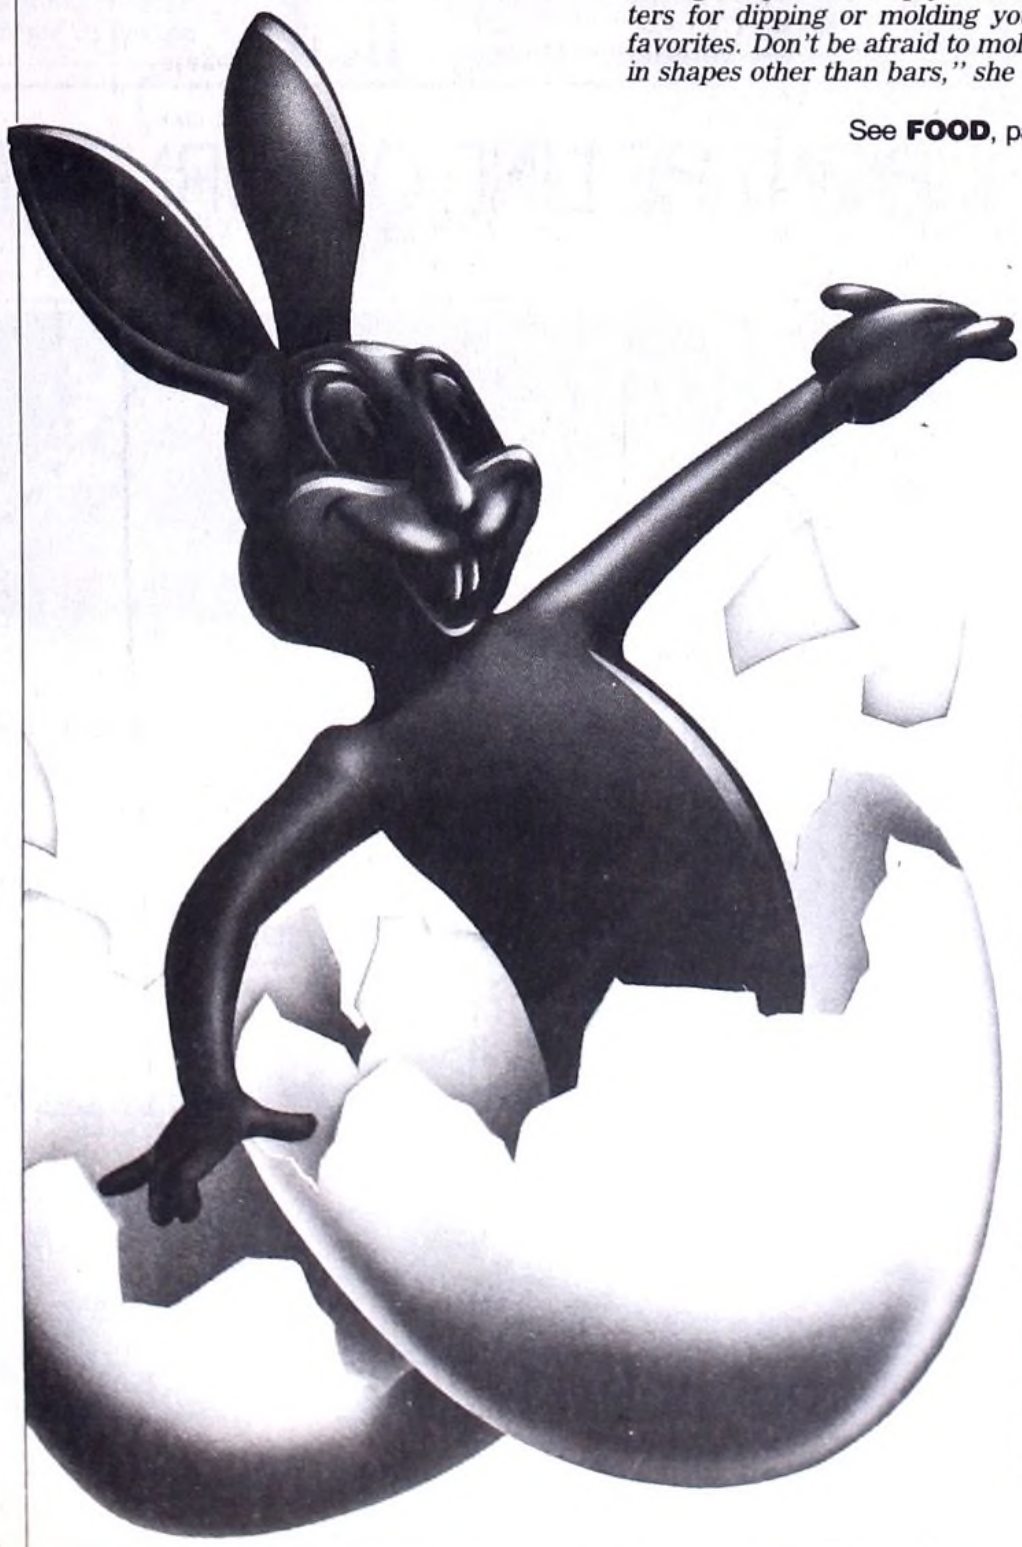

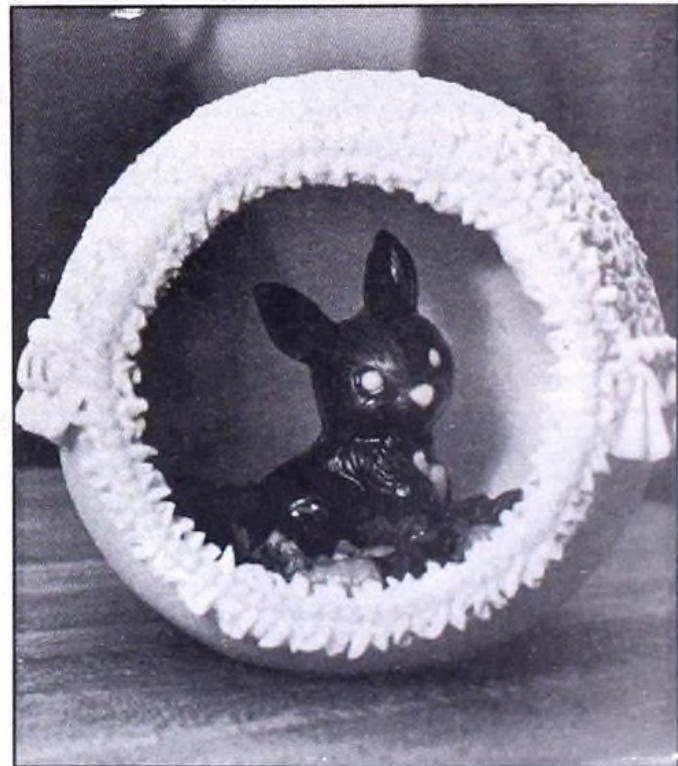

Pratt calls the next group of recipes copy cat centers.

"Surprise your family and friends by making your own candy bars. The following recipes will help you make centers for dipping or molding your own favorites. Don't be afraid to mold them in shapes other than bars," she wrote.

Spring welcomed with concerts

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

The summer music season will be piped in by the St. Andrew's Bagpipers during the June 16 Strawberry Festival parade and continue through mid-August in Victory Park.

"This year our musical programs will start earlier and end later than last year," said Cathie Cameron of the Belleville Music Committee. "We have a tentative schedule, with a few details still to be confirmed."

The BMC, founded last year, sponsors a series of free Sunday afternoon concerts in Victory Park. The concerts are funded through donations and fundraisers.

Belleville High School Ambassadors will entertain June 24, the Ypsi Band is scheduled July 1, the July 8 group is not confirmed, and the July 15 concert will feature a clown band and children's concert. Joyful Noise will entertain on July 22, a July 29 program is yet to be announced, a Dixieland group will perform Aug. 5 and the series will close with the Northville Jazz Aug. 12.

"Last year the Victory Park Summer Concert Series also began with the Ambassadors, and we'll continue to seek as many local performers as we can. Above all, we want a variety of music that will appeal to everyone," Cameron said. "This season, for example, we have the pipers, a vocal group, children's music, Dixieland and jazz. We'd also like to have a gospel group and country-western performers to add to the variety of our offerings."

Cameron, a lifelong Belleville resident, noted the summer series is not a new idea, but rather the revival of a tradition in the city park.

"Our idea for the summer concert series came from our memories of the high school band playing in the park when we - Mayor Glenn Silvenis, Barbara Rogalle Miller and I - were kids," Cameron said. "We remembered how much we enjoyed the concerts when we were kids, and decided to re-establish a concert series so that area people can once again enjoy the free concerts in the park."

Barbara Rogalle Miller is BMC chairperson. Members are Cameron, Silvenis, Jill Karolyi, Gwenth Ashe, Genevieve Riggs, Elizabeth Sisk, Pat Meek and Sherry Sakowski.

New members are being sought to aid in developing the expanded program and assisting with the fundraisers.

Spring Fever.

A restless, eager, excitable feeling that commonly results when ads are placed in SPRING, the network of 39 Detroit suburban newspapers, and sales climb beyond belief.

May means morels

The month of May brings with it the anticipation of 'morel madness' in Michigan.

An estimated half million gourmets are scurrying to Michigan woodlands in search of the savory wild mushroom, according to the Automobile Association of America.

Spring weather determines the success of the morel crop. Ideal conditions are warm, humid days with adequate rainfall.

But if nature fails to do the job, Michigan grocers may soon offer indoor-grown morels.

Company M, a Lansing-based firm, has developed methods to grow morels indoor year-round and is selling the technology worldwide. Domino's Pizza Distribution Corp. in Ann Arbor recently acquired exclusive North American rights to produce, market and sell the cultivated morels.

For those who prefer to gather spring morels the old-fashioned way, black morels fruit first, usually in late April or early May. White morels fruit approximately one week later. Giant morels appear in mid-to-late May and are the largest of the species. The morel season in Michigan ends in early June.

Edible morels can be recognized by their pitted caps. Other, sometimes poisonous, morels are not pitted, but ridged or wrinkled in appearance. First-time pickers should hunt with an experienced guide who can select edible mushrooms.

Best sites to seek the delectable, nutty-tasting morsels of fungi are hardwood forests, especially under moist aspen, ash and elm tree, and near streams and lakes. Apple orchards are also good places.

TRAVEL

For kids too

Cruises can be designed for the whole family

Cruises are not for adults only.

More and more cruiselines are making it easy to take small children along on a floating vacation, according to travel agents.

A short cruise may be the best way to start, agents suggest. An East Coast example is Admiral Cruises' Emerald Seas, which sails from South Florida on three- and four-night trips to the Bahamas and a private "out island."

On board this trip, parents and children can divert themselves individually or as a family.

Infants are the darlings of the cruise ship, travel agents say. Fellow passengers will fall in line to help those traveling with wee ones. The crew will also give added attention.

Younger children, through age 10, offer the greatest parental delight on cruise ships, according to agents. At this age, a child's sense of discovery takes over as they witness the wonders of the sea and the enormity of the cruise ship.

Simply being away from home gives children of this age group a thrill, according to travel agents. Being on a ship with multiple decks, huge smokestacks, food at all hours of the day, a captain in uniform and on-board swimming pool and movie theaters is mind-boggling.

Pre-adolescents are easily entertained on board. They can explore on their own, count how many nations the crew represents, and make a big deal of setting foot on foreign soil at port. An excellent diversion for youngsters of this age group, according to travel agents, is to have them write a journal of their trip.

Teens are old enough to appreciate many of the same things that draw adults to cruises year after year. They enjoy lounging by the pool, visiting new places and just relaxing.

In addition to regular activities, some cruise lines offer well-run children's programs. These immediately help to cluster the cruise's younger set and allow the parents to relax.

Obviously, some cruise lines cater more to families than others, making it a good idea to discuss the "personalities" of cruises with a travel agent. New cruises which include an overnight stop at Disney World, for example, are perfect for the whole family, while another cruise may be too fast-paced for a youngster.

FABULOUS FIJI ISLANDS

Want to escape to a place that's delightfully new and refreshing? Come to the fabulous FIJI Islands, those jewels of the South Pacific, where you'll find magnificent sandy beaches encircled by some of the warmest, clearest, and most brilliant tropical waters in the world.

A mood of undistracted relaxation pervades all of the Fiji Islands. Here you can bask in the sun, swim, sail and snorkel to your hearts content. Other attractions include coral viewing, scuba diving, fishing, and water skiing, all within a few steps from your door, whether you stay in a resort hotel or in a native-type bure or beach cottage.

The largest island is Viti Levu, called "the mainland" by the natives, but there are more than 300 other islands to explore and enjoy, as well as beautiful native crafts and entertainment, tennis courts, golf courses, and island cruises. One week packages from Detroit start as low as $1209 per person sharing twin.

Food

Peanut butter centers

- 3/4 cup peanut butter
- 3/4 cup sifted powdered sugar
- 1 tablespoon melted butter

Mix together, kneading until smooth. Makes about 24 peanut butter cups.

Silky way centers

Mix two parts marshmallow creme with one part melted dark chocolate flavor coating. Let set approximately 15 minutes before using.

Million dollar center

- Number 1 melted caramel
- 3 cups puffed rice cereal

Mix caramel and cereal. Turn into buttered eight-by-eight-inch pan. When cool, cut to desired shape.

Butterfinger center

- 1 cup peanut butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup corn syrup
- 1/3 cup water

Heat peanut butter in double boiler. Cook syrup, sugar and water to 310 degrees; remove from heat. Add warm peanut butter and stir quickly until completely blended. Pour onto greased cookie sheet, spreading thinly. Immediately score into pieces. Cool.

Mocha flavored chocolate

Mix one part dry instant coffee (powdered rather than crystal) with 6 parts melted milk chocolate or dark chocolate flavored coating. Stir gently but thoroughly. Mold as usual.

Peanut clusters

- Number 1 melted chocolate
- 3/4 pound peanuts

Stir together. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper. Let set at room temperature. This method can be used for all kinds of clusters-raisin, mini-marshmallow, chow mein noodles. For sampler boxes, drop mixture directly into glassine candy cups.

Tiger's butter

- 1 cup melted milk chocolate flavor coating
- 1 cup melted white coating
- 1/2 cup smooth peanut butter

Thoroughly mix white coating and peanut butter. Add other coating and stir slightly. Pour into wax-paper-lined 10-by-10-inch pan. With a knife, swirl the coating to give marbled effect. Set at room temperature. Tiger's butter is soft, much like fudge. Cut into squares or use as centers for molding or dipping.

Desserts

- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 4 ounces semisweet chocolate
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Blend 2 tablespoons milk with the flour and set aside. Beat the egg yolks until they are thick and lemony. Add the flour mixture and the sugar. Blend well. Melt the chocolate with the remaining milk in the top of a double boiler over hot water, stirring until blended. Remove from heat and cool. Combine with the egg mixture and return to top of double boiler, still over the hot water, and cook, stirring constantly until custard thickens. Remove from heat, pour into a chilled bowl and cool. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold in the whipped cream and vanilla and then gently fold into the chocolate custard, blending well. Spoon into custard cups and chill for at least 6 hours or overnight.

But, if you don't have time for all that, you can try this simple, but elegant treat.

Hershey freeze

- 4-cup mold, lightly buttered
- 1 1/3 cups Hershey chocolate syrup
- 2 cups heavy cream, whipped
- 3 1/2 tablespoons curacao, Grand Marnier or rum
- Chopped almonds

Fold the syrup into the whipped cream and add the liqueur and freeze in the mold for 2-3 hours. Garnish with chopped nuts. Do not EVER tell anybody how easy this is...it tastes as though you spent hours on it.

Walk, Stroll, Mosey, Ramble, Hike, Saunter, Amble

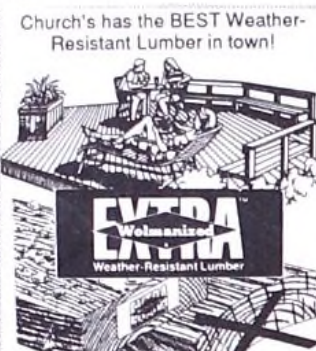

No matter how you do it, walking is one of the best steps you can take for improving your health. It's fun, it's easy, and now, you can improve the health of thousands of babies just by walking.

During the March of Dimes "WalkAmerica" event, every step you take will help us make great strides toward eliminating birth defects. So join "WalkAmerica" for healthier babies.
